

ST. JOSEPH
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE:
THE VOICE OF

From the Chamber President:

Dear Chamber Members,

Looking back two years ago, I would have never thought I'd be where I am today. I remember my first St. Joseph Chamber member meeting. I was there with my new boss, anxious to impress, and already running for Chamber Vice President! I had to stand up in front of everyone and introduce myself! I had to describe why I wanted to be the Vice President! It all seemed so overwhelming at the time.

Now, looking back, I laugh. Thinking of my Chamber friends now, they aren't the critical crowd I thought they were then; but a sea of friendly and compassionate faces. They are the people who have volunteered their free time and elbow grease to help with community events. They are the people who have shared their business pains as well as joyfully thrilled us with their passion for their work.

They are the people who care about the City of St. Joseph and stay with our Chamber just because they love it, not necessarily because it translates into thousands of dollars in business.

I feel like the St. Joseph Chamber is my little second family. I know each and every one of you and am constantly looking for ways to send you business – and I know you're doing the same for me! I look forward to our member meetings and our after-hours events.

I'm excited to see what next year brings under Kerry Peterson's leadership. I knew Kerry would be an excellent leader when he had us doubled-over in laughter – even after hours of backbreaking labor setting up our Community Showcase!

Thank you all for making me feel welcome, helping me improve, and guiding me to new business connections. I look forward to serving you as "Outgoing President" this coming year.

Sincerely,

Leslie Lane

Hiring for Culture? Difficult But Critical

By Bob Ringstrom

When your company culture fails, it will kill productivity and your profit. Conversely; with the right culture in place, companies seek to perpetuate their enlightenment. They strive to continuing to hire better and smarter. With this principle as a foundation for hiring, new employees require less coaching and supervision! They generate greater value for the company and become long-term, loyal assets. There is less stress. Overhead costs are diminished, while owners and management thrive on the success of 'getting things right'. Consider also, the fulfilling work experience for the employee? Everyone wins!

Human resources (HR) all too often functions in self-imprisonment to qualitative and quantifying rudiments.

Afterall; if the rule book is followed, one cannot be responsible for the culture? Think again; HR will be blamed. When the candidate's interview experience is cold and the recruiter glosses over the vetting of the candidate; the outcome is a mirrored reflection of a flawed introduction.

One gets what one asks for. People like to be treated like people. The relationship between the candidate and the hiring organization begins with a resumé. If the handshake is mutually and emotionally firm, it reflects promise. But if the relationship flounders, HR must be quick to throw out the experiment along with the petri dish.

Bob Ringstrom is a workforce analyst in St Joseph Minnesota

Sister Delores Dufner, an accomplished and nationally-renowned hymn writer, was recently featured on an episode of "Voices United," the official podcast of The Center for Congregational Song. In the episode, she talks about the "craft and art of writing hymn texts." The podcast is supported by The Hymn Society in the United States and Canada, of which S. Delores is a member. You can listen to the interview online.

December we will be having a 'Made in America' frame special. ALL eyeglass frames made in America will be 40% off! This will be for the entire month of December. Our optical is shifting to carrying more eyeglass frames made in America to support more jobs in the US.

8 FIXES THAT WILL GET THE ATTENTION OF YOUR HOME BUYERS

COMMONSENSE FIXES

Let there be natural light. Natural light is a major selling point for most homes. Make sure you clean the windows and leave the blinds open to allow in the most light possible. The more natural light, the more offers.

All about the little things. Repair any chips, peels or cracks. The more cared-for your home appears, the more likely buyers are to care about it.

Leave the lights on for them. For a night showing, leave your outdoor lights on to warmly welcome potential buyers.

Clean up the outdoors too. A manicured edge shows you care about the details. Prune bushes and trees to maintain their shape.

LITTLE FIXES, BIG RESULTS

Give your numbers new life. Whether you're simply adding a fresh coat of paint or adding new numbers to match your home's style, a quick update does a lot for your home's value.

Show off the porch. If you're lucky enough to have a porch, show it off with comfortable furniture, like a glider or Adirondack chair to add a friendly touch.

Fix your fixtures. If your outdoor lighting fixtures are not quite vintage, they probably need to be swapped out for something more modern.

You know what they say about first impressions. Mailboxes are often forgotten, but a quick coat of paint or even replacing the entire thing can make a huge difference in the minds of buyers.

BankVista Congratulates Lisa Fioreck

Please join BankVista in congratulating Lisa Fioreck on her promotion to AVP, Cash Management Officer. Lisa started at BankVista in March of 2014 and has served as a Commercial Lender, dedicating herself to helping businesses grow and succeed in our community.

"I have so much respect for the hard work and dedication that each small business owner contributes to achieve their goals. I look forward to deepening my customer relationships and I'm excited to help business owners find the banking solution that works best for their needs," says Lisa Fioreck.

November is National Home Health Month: 10 Benefits of Home Health Care:

Managing busy families and the emotional decisions that must be made when caring for a loved one can be overwhelming.

Often, the demands and pressure of providing care can result in caregiver burnout. It occurs when family caregivers do not get the help they need and are trying to do more than they are able to.

Home health care can help

- 1. Home health care professionals can be there when you aren't able to be. If you are caregiving from a distance, home health care can give you peace of mind.
- 2. Home care supports activities of daily living (ADLs). In-home services allow adults to receive day-to-day help with the personal care they need, preserving their dignity and maintaining a good quality of life.
- 3. Access to skilled nursing care at home. Skilled medical care can be delivered at home by thoroughly supervised nurses, certified, licensed and knowledgeable about high-technology medical equipment.
- 4. Support with diet and nutrition. Are your loved ones getting the nutrition they need to stay healthy?
- 5. Medication management. If your loved one is on multiple prescriptions it can be confusing to manage.
- 6. Home health care professionals provide caring companionship. Research shows that aging adults stay healthier with social interaction.
- 7. Home care helps with light household chores. When aging adults struggle the daily demands of housework, such as laundry, vacuuming, dishes, and simple chores home care helps to consistently maintain a safe and healthy living environment.
- 8. Home health care clients have comparable or better health outcomes. Research has shown that clinical results are comparable or better with fewer complications when home care is provided to individuals with chronic conditions such as pneumonia, diabetes, or COPD.
- 9. One-on-one focus and support. Home health care services are truly unique, providing meaningful, one-on-one personal and skilled care that builds strong bonds between professionals and their clients.
- 10. An affordable alternative to facility or hospital care. According to the National Association of Home Care, the average cost of care from a skilled nursing facility is $544 dollars per day, while the average cost of home health care per visit is $132 dollars.

For many families, home health care can be just the support they need to help manage caregiving responsibilities, while avoiding caregiver burnout. Could you or someone you love benefit from home health care services?
